From findagrave: Caleb Munger, the father of Charles Munger, was born in Connecticut November 6, 1802, and the mother in Massachusetts in 1803. Both were school teachers, and received a fair education. They moved to Brecksville Township, Cuyahoga County, whence they went to Brunswick, Medina County, Ohio, then to Liberty Township, Seneca County, and in the spring of 1859 they came to Perry Township where Mister Munger bought 80 acres of land in Section 25, about 35 of which were cleared, and on which were a log house and barn. Here Mrs. Munger died in 1882, and was buried and Fostoria. Two children were born to this couple, Ann S., now the wife of W. P. Dicken, of Seneca County, and Charles. Mister and Mrs. Munger were brought up in the Congregational faith; but when they came to Seneca County there was no such denomination in their vicinity, so they joined the Presbyterian Church, of which they were original members in Fostoria.

Politically Mister Monger was originally a Whig and Know-Nothing, later joining the Republican ranks. He cast his first vote for John Quincy Adams. He has voted for every president since that time, and has never missed an election. He has never sought office, but has always taken an active interest in the success of his party. He is a well preserved man for his advanced years. When 81 years old he broke his right leg, and in four weeks was able to walk around – an exhibition of remarkable vitality. He was reared as a farmer's boy, his father owning a small farm and obtaining a living by the hardest kind of work. Mister Munger was employed in burning charcoal, cutting hoop-poles, etc. The Munger family is remarkable for its longevity: Caleb is over 93; one of his sisters died at the age of 95, and another at 93, while a third lived to be 87. One of his brothers, Edward, is living in Chicago at the age of 84 years. Caleb died in Perry Township.

In Oct. 1861, Charles enlisted in Company B, of 55th O.V.I.. Transferred from Company F. He played cornet until in Louisville KY he suffered a partial sunstroke.

From findagrave: Charles Munger, a farmer of wide reputation in Perry Township, is a native of Brunswick Township, Medina County, where he was born August 6, 1842, his parents being Caleb and Anna Fairfield Munger.

The subject of this sketch first went to school in Seneca County, Ohio, to which place his parents moved when he was six years old. He was reared to the duties of farm life, and, as he was an only son, was early taught the rudiments of the work. He lived at home until October, 1861, when he enlisted in Company B, 55th O.V.I., to which he was transferred from Company F, at his request. He served continuously with his Regiment, in which he played the cornet, until, in Louisville, Kentucky, he suffered from a partial sunstroke, and was taken to Perry Township by Orrin Stearns, where he was ill for some time. He first enlisted for three years, at the expiration of that time re-enlisting for the remainder of the war. Owing to his bad health he sought other work than that of farming, but none suited him so well, and he returned home and went to work for his father.

On September 26, 1869, he was married in Perry Township, to miss Amanda Stewart. He went to housekeeping on the family farm after his marriage, and entered into partnership with his father, which continued until about 1888, when he paid off the other heirs and became the sole owner of the 80 acres; he has since added to this, now owning 110 acres. In 1862 a substantial brick residence was built, and here our subject lives, his father living with him. Mister and Mrs. Monger are now the parents of four children, namely: Edith, now Mrs. Lemuel Good, of Seneca County; Anna L., who married John Strawman, of Seneca County; and Raymond and Charles P., both residing at home. Mister Monger has always been a staunch Republican, and has served as trustee of Perry Township, and two terms as assessor. He has been for many years director of School District number 1. Both he and his wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which Mister Monger is a steward.
